

SUPER ART LEAGUE

Mission Statement

The Super Art League is a league of super artists integrating visual art with performance art to empower youth through curiosity, creativity, and compassion.

Through structured play, our educational workshops integrate visual art with performance art to build character. We believe that focusing on self-confidence and leadership will help children be proud of what makes them super and see and treat others as an extension of themselves.

In response to the reduction in funding for the arts in schools, our workshops and community performances are targeted for youth ages K-12. Our playful approach transforms spaces into playgrounds of wonder to maximize collaborative learning.

Community Partners

We partner with individual artists, community groups, arts organizations and specialized educational institutions to accommodate all abilities and social justice issues. Our community performances galvanize the learning so that collectively we spread awareness of diversity and inclusion as education for our audience.

Community Outreach

George Bellows Grant Program 2019

Since 2015, the George Bellows Grant Program has provided funding in support of individual artists, artistic collaborations, and community-based organizations investing in the fundamental value of arts and culture in the Franklinton community. Activities eligible for grant consideration include public art projects, community engagement activities through the arts, and arts educational programs.

We are pleased to announce that the Super Art League has been awarded a 2019 George Bellows Grant by the Franklinton Arts District! Thank you to the many Urban Scrawl artists and Art for Franklinton patrons for making these funds available, and to the Franklinton Arts District board for their support.

What is Outreach? Why is it important?
Community Outreach is an effort by individuals in an organization or group to connect its ideas or practices to the efforts of other organizations, groups, or the general public.

The Super Art League has a wonderful time speaking with parents about enriching and fun Art programs and available Scholarships for classes.

Community Art Murals

Gabby the Giraffe 2019

9' x 5' 3D wooden sculpture mural

Gabby the Giraffe, a public sculpture, is a collaboration of 300 children building community together through Art. The painted spots represent the unique contribution of creativity from each individual. The image in the sun is a Girafficorn named Gesso. They (non-binary pronoun) are inspired by the Native Alaskan totem style to remind us of the work of ancestors that paved the way for the type of community we are now capable of building together. This beautiful 3D collaboration will soon find a permanent home and hang proudly here in Columbus, Ohio.

Urban Scrawl features the live creation of murals by more than 50 artists from the Columbus area and beyond.

Inky the Octopus 2018

4' x 8' 3D wooden sculpture mural

Inky the Octopus, a public sculpture, is a collaboration of 150 children building community together through Art. The painted suction cups represent the unique contribution of creativity from each individual.

This beautiful 3D collaboration has found a permanent home hanging proudly @ Ronald McDonald House Charities in Columbus, Ohio.

Course Learning Outcomes: Students will have explored what teamwork, friendship and community means through co-creating stories together. Additionally, students will learn basic puppetry skills, how to have stage presence, and how to tell a story through improvisation.

Course Description: Through structured play, What's Your Super? integrates visual art with performance art to build super personas. At the end of the course, we will showcase a 45 minute performance of the stories we co-create over 10 weeks. Each story is a celebration of what makes each of us super. We believe that celebrating what makes each of us super is a way to see and treat others as a super extension of ourselves.

Course Goals: Your super is something unique about yourself that you are proud of. The goals of the course are to build your super persona and share it with your community by

- Designing a super logo (with cape), super mask and super sidekick puppet.
- Embodying your super persona through puppetry and improv.
- Storytelling based on the themes of Teamwork, Friendship and Community.

Staff

Heidi Madsen is a performance artist. Based in Columbus Ohio, Madsen creates awareness of social issues through her performance art. Currently, she is focused on bringing installation Art and sculpture to life through performance Art. For the last eight years, Madsen has served as the Programming co-coordinator on the steering committee of the Creative Arts of Women (CAW).

Madsen has a Computer Science Engineering degree from The Ohio State University. Professionally, she works for JPMorgan Chase as the Community of Practice Lead for Global Technology Program Management. In her community, Madsen uses performance Art as an effective tool to capture her audience's attention and start meaningful conversations. Madsen's studies in Clowning, The Art of Hosting, and Social Presencing Theatre are the foundation for projects in this community-based work. She is the recipient of Greater Columbus Arts Council Professional Development grants to pursue her creativity as a career path while giving back to her community.

Janette Jones Ball is a painter and installation artist using acrylic, water soluble oil, and ink. Based in Columbus Ohio, she studied at The Columbus College of Art & Design, and recently as a member of the Creative Arts of Women.

Additionally, Janette continues to help people heal through her pet portraits. These colorful pet portraits are painted with bold colors to capture the emotion and lines of expression; and amplify the language not spoken between the owner and their beloved pet.

She is a former corporate IT Professional and now monitors, manages and deploys all aspects of information functionality for the Super Art League.

Janette considers her mother to be one of her greatest Art mentors. She also has a son and daughter of her own that are grown, and they have little ones of their own. She loves to be with kids and hopes to enrich the local young community with Art while teaching teamwork and friendship.

James Kindler is a mixed media painter and 3D sculptor. Based in Columbus, Ohio, Kindler is also a member of the Artist Wrestling League (AWL). The Super Art League was born from an adaptation of his pilot of the AWL Kids program. Kindler saw the program making a difference, as shy, quiet kids would open up when adopting a fun, amplified persona.

"I coached soccer for 12 years. I don't remember our win-loss record, but I can tell you how many kids went to college. I taught them life lessons." Kindler sees the Super Art League as a way to teach kids to get up in front of people, to give them some performance skills and confidence while being positive and affirming of their unique traits.

Professionally, Kindler owns a successful commercial and residential renovation and home improvement business.
